300 Days to Go!

October 1st, 2016 is a special day in that it marks the 300-day countdown until the opening ceremonies of the 2017 Jeux Canada Games in Winnipeg, Manitoba that our athletics athletes will take part in.

Building off of this date and the amazing competitive results that were achieved in 2016 Athletics New Brunswick, the 2017 coaching staff, and the entire Canada Games program are excited to announce its second 2017 Identification List. This list is comprised of 83 athletes from across the New Brunswick that have shown the potential to represent New Brunswick at the games through their performances during the 2016 outdoor season.

“I couldn’t be more excited about where we are at in terms of Canada Games outlook. We have less than a year until the games and presently we have two athletes with A+ standards (top 3), twelve with A standards (top 8), and nineteen with B standards (top 12). This is great momentum for our province as a whole and shows that New Brunswick athletics is continuing to impress,” said head coach Jason Reindl. “The entire CSG staff is excited with the depth and quality of this identification list but we know that no one has a position on the team until trials (June 23-25, 2017). Our message to those who find themselves on the list and those that do not is the same. Keep on training hard. Keep on setting goals and working towards them. Keep on striving for excellence. If you can do those things you will stand a great chance of being successful and achieving your Team NB CSG goals in 2017,” added Reindl.

Any athletes or coaches who require assistance in developing their plans towards the CSG trials and the games or just have questions are encouraged to contact Head Coach Jason Reindl – jasonreindl@me.com - (506) 343-2149.

Please note that inclusion on the list has absolutely no bearing on final team selection in 2017. Athletes who have been named have no greater likelihood of being selected for the games team nor have those not been included having any additional requirements. All items dealing with the selection criteria can be found in the following selection criteria document located on the ANB website that were approved by the ANB board on June 24th, 2015.
